W. S. S. REPORT IS CAUSE OF DISPUTE

Thomas Branaman, Former Member of Conscription Board, and L. C. Griffiths Clash.

ARGUMENT AT BROWNSTOWN

Former Claimed Latter Showed Undue and Personal Activity in Matter of His Release.

Thomas Branaman, an attorney at Brownstown, and former member of the Jackson county conscription board, and L. C. Griffiths, of Seymour, president of the Jackson county war savings committee, engaged in an argument at Brownstown Friday night which resulted in several blows being struck. The dispute developed, it is charged, when Branaman stopped Mr. Griffiths on the street and accused him of pushing the matter of Branaman's release from the conscription board for the purpose of injuring his standing. Mr. Griffiths denied that this had been his purpose. Branaman is also said to have accused Mr. Griffiths of circulating some unsigned cards in Brownstown following his release from the conscription board. Mr. Griffiths also made an absolute denial of this and said he did not know of the cards until some time after they had been scattered in Brownstown.

Mr. Branaman is said to have told Mr. Griffiths that a party in Brownstown is said to have had absolute knowledge that Mr. Griffiths circulated the cards. Mr. Griffiths demanded that they go to the party, who was a member of the Brownstown township W. S. S. committee, and confront him with the facts. The party, it is said, declared that he had understood that Mr. Griffiths had been instrumental in the circulation of the cards.

Branaman is said to have struck at Mr. Griffiths while they were talking to the third party. Mr. Griffiths struck back, it is said, and hit Branaman on the shoulder. The latter is declared to have then used his fists freely for several minutes, but that Griffiths was able to ward off the blows. When Branaman had tired himself out Griffiths, it is said, caught hold of his right hand and held him. They then walked up the street when Branaman is said to have admitted that he acted too hastily.

The trouble dates back several months and is the outcome of a report which was made by the Brownstown township W. S. S. committee following Branaman's alleged refusal to buy stamps during the campaign last June. At that time, Branaman was a member of the conscription board.

When asked about the differences, Mr. Griffiths stated that the request that the W. S. S. county committee file a report to the state W. S. S. committee regarding Branaman's attitude came to him in June and that he withheld action until August. The special report filed by the Brownstown township committee, a copy of which was sent to the state committee is as follows:

"We, the undersigned committee, make the following report:

"We believe:

"That Mr. Branaman is financially able to buy stamps, also that he is a land owner and property owner.

"2. That he was indifferent and even discourteous to the solicitors.

"3. That we recommend that the authorities carefully consider removing him from the conscription board, because we believe the general public desires this be done."

The report which is filed on the back of a card showing the name of the party called upon to buy stamps, is signed by the members of the committee.

Mr. Griffiths stated that many requests were made that he as county chairman take the matter up with the state committee, and that several weeks later he wrote a letter to the state chairman, enclosing a copy of the report of the township committee and requested that the state committee give full consideration to the recommendations of the township committee.

signed as a member of the board, and it was generally understood at that time that he took such action upon request.

Efforts today to interview Mr. Branaman failed.

Mr. Griffiths said that he had no apologies to make for the part he took in the matter and had nothing to retract of anything he has had to say about the case in the past. He said he followed the recommendations made with him as county chairman after two months of deliberation.

B. & O. BRAKEMAN IS SERIOUSLY HURT

Claud Purkhiser Caught Between Two Freight Cars While at Work Near Deputy.

RUSHED HERE TO HOSPITAL

Physicians Will Be Unable to Determine Extent of Injuries For Few Days.

Claud Purkhiser, a Baltimore & Ohio railroad brakeman, was seriously injured at 7:55 this morning while at work at the Deputy station on the Louisville branch when he was caught between two cars. Both of his hips were badly crushed and he was injured about the legs.

Following the accident the train crew took the engine and caboose of their train and formed a special train to rush the injured man to the Schneck Memorial Hospital in this city. The special carrying the injured man arrived here at 9 o'clock and Mr. Purkhiser was moved to the Schneck hospital in the Hustedt ambulance.

A report from the hospital late this afternoon stated that Mr. Purkhiser's injuries were serious. It will probably be several days before the attending physicians will be able to ascertain the extent of his injuries as it is feared he had been hurt internally. He is reported to be resting as well as could be expected.

The injured man was accompanied to Seymour by Dr. Robertson, of Deputy, together with the members of his train crew of which M. Ross was the conductor and M. Lester, engineer. After taking the injured man to the hospital the crew returned to Deputy to pick up their train and continue the trip to Louisville.

According to members of the crew, Mr. Purkhiser was walking between two cars which had been cut apart while the train was standing still. As he was going between the cars the train started to back and before he could escape was crushed between the two cars.

Although suffering intense pain, Mr. Purkhiser was conscious at all times and his first request to the members of the crew who rushed to his assistance following the accident was that he be brought to the Seymour hospital. Mr. Purkhiser has been employed on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad for a number of years and has many friends who will regret to learn of his serious accident. The injured man resides on East Third street and besides a wife, has two small children. His many friends hope for his speedy recovery.

BRITISH LABOR LEADERS FIGHTING THE HIGH COSTS

J. Thomas, Laborite, Would "String Up" Profiteers, He Tells Parliament.

By United Press

London, August 9.—British labor leaders today were demanding direct action against profiteers, immediate release from the high prices and guarantees that no advances would be permitted in the future.

"I would strap up all persons who would take advantage of the sacrifices in blood made by the country," J. Thomas, Laborite and member of Parliament declared. Jack Jones, another member of parliament, urged establishment of municipal markets as a remedy and hanging as a penalty for offenders.

DECISION FAVORS ANTI-REMOVALISTS

Votes Cast in Jennings County Court House Election Are Being Re-counted Today.

FIGHT IS ONLY BEGINNING

George Crist, E. P. Trapp and Shepard Whitcomb Appointed to Re-count The Ballots.

Judge John R. Carney, in the Jennings county circuit court, Friday, granted the application of Vernon residents for a recount of the votes cast in the court house election held in that county several days ago. E. P. Trapp and George Crist, anti-removalists and Shepard Whitcomb, removalists, were appointed by the court to recount the ballots and the work was started today. It will probably take two or three days for the votes to be recounted.

As a result of the election held July 22, which made North Vernon the county seat by a majority of 828 votes, it was believed by many Jennings county residents that a long and drawn out fight had reached its climax. However, new developments in the matter which have come up since the election indicate that the trouble over the location of the Jennings county seat is only in its infancy and it is predicted that the most bitter part of the fight is yet to come. Attorneys in the case are of the opinion that it will take at least a year for the matter to be threshed out in court.

The anti-removalists have employed the best legal assistance obtainable and will put forth every effort to prevent the court house from being removed to North Vernon from being removed to North Vernon in accordance with the decision of the election.

A restraining order is pending that prevents the commissioners of Jennings county from declaring North Vernon the county seat. All actions pending will likely come up for hearing at the October term of the Jennings county circuit court.

Both factions were well represented at the hearing held Friday to determine whether or not the ballots should be recounted. The attorneys for the North Vernon removalists put up a bitter fight to prevent the recount but the case was decided in favor of the North Vernon people claim that they have evidence to show that there was fraud in the election. However, the North Vernon citizens are confident that the election was conducted fairly.

MAY PETITION FOR SHIPMENT OF FOOD

Several Members of Chamber of Commerce in Favor of Getting Car Load From Government.

TEN DAYS GIVEN FOR SALE

City Officials Would Likely Be Asked to Assist in The Sale And Distribution of Stocks.

Several members of the chamber of commerce are behind the movement to petition the government for a car load of food commodities which are being sold from the surplus supplies held by the war department. The matter has been under consideration for a week or more and some of the citizens feel that a considerable saving can be made by taking advantage of the government's offer.

One man who is interested in the plan explained today that a carload of such commodities would have to be sent in the name of the city or some recognized civic body as the government will not permit it to go to dealers for retail purposes. He suggests that the chamber of commerce get back of the movement and ask the city officials to take charge of the distribution. In other cities where the plan has been followed, he said, the sales are made direct from the car or the food is temporarily stored in the city building or fire department until it is sold out. The government grants ten days from the time the freight car is placed on the siding to dispose of the food and make settlement for it. This would give ample time to sell the stocks and

GALLOWAY REFUSES TO ORDER STRIKERS TO RETURN

Declares He Returned Strike Ballots Without Opening The Package.

By United Press

Indianapolis, August 9.—F. S. Galloway, chairman of the strike committee of the Indianapolis railroad shopmen, announced this afternoon that he had sent a telegram to the national union headquarters at Cleveland saying, "go to hell".

The telegram he said was in reply to requests of headquarters that the 6,000 striking shopmen return to work pending settlement of the wage disputes in Washington. Galloway said further he had returned unopened the strike ballots received from national headquarters accompanied by instructions that no strike action be taken until after a vote had been taken all over the country. Sixty shopmen of the C. I. & W. voted to return to work Monday.

Mrs. E. P. Lindsey of Okmulgee, Okla. who has been visiting relatives in Columbus, spent a few hours here today enroute to her home. She was accompanied to this city by Mrs. R. D. O'Haver and F. W. Jacobs.

WILSON PROGRAM TO BE CONSIDERED

Congress Ready to Take Up Suggestions for Reducing High Cost of Living.

MONEY TO BE APPROPRIATED

Several of President's Recommendations Already Covered in Bills Pending.

By United Press

Washington, August 9.—Congress will begin at once consideration of legislation to carry out, at least in part, President Wilson's recommendations for reducing the high cost of living, house and senate leaders promised today.

Representative Mondell, majority leader of the house, said that any request for money to make effective the campaign against profiteers would be speedily complied with.

Senator Lodge, majority leader of the senate said:

"I think the president made some good and practical suggestions in regard to the artificial and extortionate prices for the necessities of life, and I am sure congress will deal with them at once."

A number of the president's suggestions have been covered in bills now pending. Committee action on these will be urged next week. They include measures for regulation of storage plants and for stamping of prices on food products.

Comments from men of both parties today showed that some of the president's suggestions regarding legislation met with general approval. His appeal for ratification of the treaty, however, apparently caused some resentment.

COLLEEN MOORE IS STAR.

Takes Leading Role in Production of "Little Orphant Annie."

To the millions of readers of James Whitcomb Riley, of which a number live in this city, it should be welcome news to read that The Princess will present "Little Orphant Annie" in photoplay form. This is said by all authorities to be the best thing that the Hoosier poet did. Colleen Moore is the star and the scenes are faithful reproductions of Riley's heart-throbbing poem. Also a Harold Lloyd comedy, "Swat the Crook." No raise in admission prices.

STRIKERS GOING BACK TO MACHINES

Railway Shopmen Responding to Wilson's Appeal, Leaders are Advised Today.

DEMAND 25 PER CENT. BOOST

Negotiations With Rail Director Hines are Expected to Begin Tuesday.

By United Press

Washington, August 9.—Railroad shopmen who struck without authorization are going back to work in response to President Wilson's declaration that he would not consider their demand for wage increases until they are back on the job. The railway division of the American Federation of Labor received telegrams today indicating that all the men would be back at work by Monday.

Labor leaders said they expected to begin negotiations with Rail Director Hines by next Tuesday. The shopmen want 25 per cent. wage increase. Wage demands of other railroad employees may be submitted with theirs.

Chicago, Aug. 9.—Ranks of striking railway shopmen were considerably thinned today as a result of President Wilson's request that the men go back to work until their wage question could be taken up. More than 25,000 in the Chicago district today had voted to return to work pending settlement of their claims, reports from union headquarters showed.

The passenger train situation here and throughout the Central West continued acute, however. In many shops and yards, officials, foremen and yardmasters conducted repairs and manned switch engines. Twenty trains on the Chicago & North-western, Chicago and Alton and Chesapeake & Ohio railroads were suspended.

PACKERS SLATED FOR FIRST PROSECUTIONS

Federal Authorities Intimate That Trials May not be Conducted in Chicago.

By United Press

Chicago, August 9.—The packers will be given first attention by federal prosecutors here in the war on high prices, according to District Attorney Clyne who just returned from Washington after conferences with Attorney General Palmer and administration leaders.

Clyne indicated the trial may not be held in Chicago pointing out that the packers have plants in a dozen or more cities. Wherever the evidence appears strongest, there the action will be started, he said.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

In his address dealing with the high cost of living problem, delivered to congress Friday afternoon, President Wilson urged several concrete recommendations, which, he believes, will effect price reductions. The President recognizes that the law of supply and demand is the only safe and justifiable principle in price regulation but believes that other factors have entered into the situation and that these in a large measure have forced prices upward to an unprecedented point. In a general way, the President is of the opinion that the unsettled economic conditions are due to the unsettled political situation. "There is now neither peace nor war," the President said. He asked congress to

While we are speculating as to the high cost of living we almost forget that the garbage in Seymour is not being removed very regularly. That is, we forget it until we walk within a block or so of a garbage container.

The $1.50 reduction in the price of hogs at the stock market has made no difference in the price of pork to the consumer which causes one to speculate who gets the $1.50.

Ford

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Ford cars are important servants everywhere. They help the family enjoy life, bring the pleasures and advantages of the town within reach of the farmer and give practical service every day in country and town. They require a minimum of attention; any one can run the Ford and care for it, but it is better to have repairs and replacements taken care of by those who are familiar with the work and have the tools, the genuine materials, and skilled men to do the work promptly. We pledge Ford owners the reliable Ford service with real Ford parts and standard Ford prices.

WINS CLOTHING DIPLOMA

Martin W. Steinwedel Home With Interesting Story of Intensive Course in Chicago.

The many friends of Martin W. Steinwedel, of the Steinwedel Clothing Co., have been interested to hear about his novel and stimulating experiences during his recent trip to Chicago, where he went to attend a course in fitting and store service given by the A. B. Kirschbaum Co. Mr. Steinwedel passed his examination with a percentage of 96.

This course is an adaption of the Plattsburgh plan of training which was evolved by the government during the war. In other words the Kirschbaum organization has developed radically new ideas in clothing service and by assembling their data in a concentrated tabulated form find it possible to give the students who attend their school a vast amount of knowledge during a session covering but a week.

"Really it is surprising," said Mr. Steinwedel, "how much we can absorb and digest when put under pressure. There we were, sitting under national authorities in their respective fields, and, appreciating as we did the opportunity offered, we focused every ounce of our mentalities on the subjects covered.

"It was most interesting. The very latest discoveries in psychology, the science of optics, in color combinations, in anatomy: a vast field of research which has a practical bearing on the question of apparel was enlisted in our service.

"We learned what science has determined as to styles and patterns which should be worn by stout men, thin men and short men: we witnessed demonstrations of what color combinations were suited in different types of complexions: we learned more in a week of what science has discovered which is of real value to a clothing merchant than one would gain by rule o' thumb methods in a lifetime.

"Not the least interesting of the features was the demonstration sales, in which one of us took the part of a salesman and the other a customer. The other students acted as a jury. This helped develop that tact and consideration for the requirements of a fastidious customer which can not but help react to a store's advantage.

"Well, now I'm back. It was a valuable experience. And now I'm teaching my own sales force what I learned. That the public of Seymour will note the effect in the improved service rendered at my store during the coming season is a foregone conclusion."

Mr. Steinwedel who was recently discharged from the army after overseas service will resume his place at the Steinwedel store Monday.

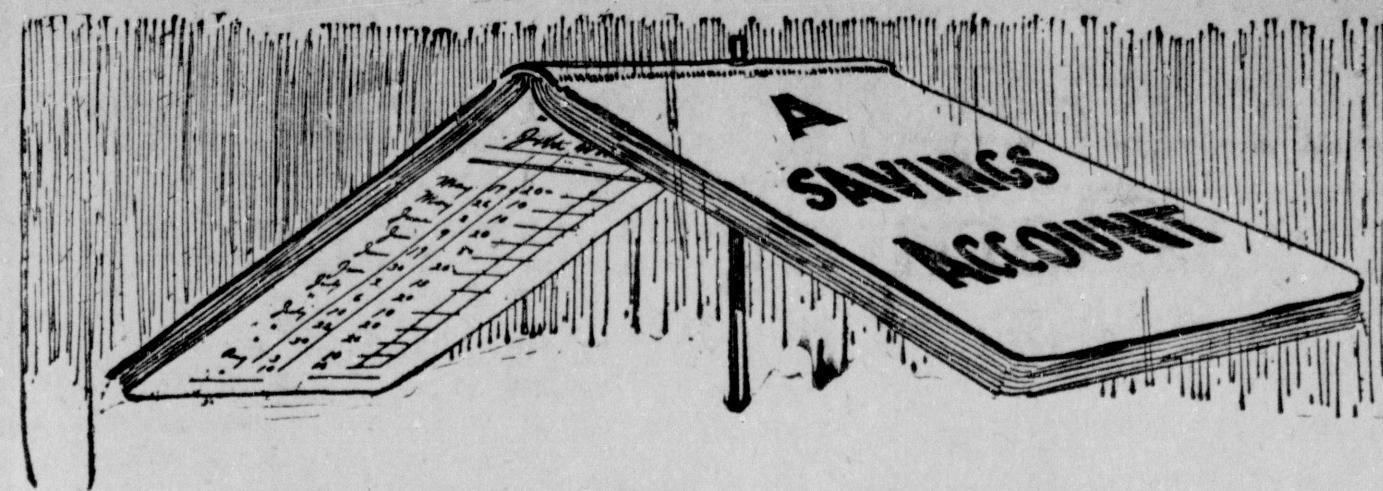

TWO PENNSYLVANIA TRAINS ARE DISCONTINUED TODAY

One North Bound and One South Bound Train are Taken off on Account of Labor Trouble.

Beginning today two of the regular Pennsylvania passenger trains have been discontinued by order of the government railroad officials. Announcement of the change was received by J. T. Jones late Friday afternoon.

The trains discontinued are the south-bound train due here at 12:55 p. m. and the north-bound train due here at 1:23. The discontinuance of the two trains is due to the labor troubles throughout the country at present and it is possible that the trains will be again established as soon as conditions are more settled.

BALTIMORE & OHIO STATION AT BEDFORD TO BE CLOSED

Agent Receives Official Announcement from Government—Will Close August 15.

Agent Massman, of the local B. & O. S-W. Station, this morning received official announcement from the government that the Bedford Station would be closed permanently beginning August 15th.

Several months ago in compliance with a government order, freight shipments in less than car lots, were not accepted there and since the Monon has been handling this business. The new order will cause a halt on the passenger business in that portion of the freight traffic that was being handled over this line. Bedford Democrat.

A Step Forward In Clothing Service To Men

Our Mr. Martin H. Steinwedel has just returned from Chicago with his diploma certifying to the fact that he mastered the course in salesmanship and store service conducted by A. B. Kirschbaum Co. makers of Kirschbaum Clothes. He passed his examination with a percentage of 96.

In our resolve to keep this store in the vanguard of progress as regards service to the public, we have left no stone unturned. Mr. Steinwedel's journey to Chicago is just one more bit of evidence to this effect.

Mr. Steinwedel is now conducting a miniature school in our store daily, with the result that every salesman in our organization will this season be able to render a fitting service, which marks a distinct forward step in retail merchandising.

Every one of our salesmen will be able, this season, to give expert aid in the selection of clothing.

He will be able to tell each individual customer exactly what color, what style, what pattern, is best suited to his figure, his type, his personality, his complexion. He will be able to tell the stout man the right sort of clothes to wear. He will be able to give similar service to the thin man—the tall man—the short man—all men.

In short, the salesman will be able to grasp quickly the needs of each case.

We shall look forward with pleasure to demonstrating to you the results of this intensive education

NOTED POEM IN PICTURES AT LOCAL PLAYHOUSE

"Little Orphant Annie" Will Be Staged at the Princess Next Tuesday.

James Whitecomb Riley, the "Hoosier Poet," when he wrote "Little Orphant Annie," never dreamed that his returns from this immortal piece of poetry would bring him in one thousand dollars a word. That is what the royalty amounts to from all sources of distribution. It is now being shown in pictures. A five-reel feature has been filmed with Colleen Moore as the star. It will be the attraction at Princess Theatre on Tuesday, and should draw large audiences.

WHIPS COMPARING METHODS

Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas, Republican whip, is demonstrating to Senator Peter Goelet Gerry of Rhode Island, Democratic whip, how he keeps the Republicans in line. His posture would indicate that he uses forceful arguments, though the smile on Senator Gerry's face gives the impression that Senator Curtis' methods are not without humor.

English Made in Germany.

A new guide book made in Germany, but printed in the English language, commends itself in a foreword as "serviceable to the British occupation troops." For their edification it prints this explanation of a legend of the Rhine, says the Outlook:

"Two Christian princes has taken a Christian virgin on a war of plunder and fought after some time for the possession of the same. A priest proposed that the virgin should be sacrificed to the dragon living on the mountain. The virgin was fastened to the rock, and when the dragon awoke he wanted to seize the same. Then the virgin presented him the holy cross when the animal agglomerated in a lump and threw itself into the Rhine."

Not the Warts.

The famous portrait painter, Mr. John S. Sargent, R. A., who is engaged on a picture depicting a group of some thirty principal military leaders, tells an amusing story of a millionaire who commissioned a portrait, but did not seem very satisfied when he inspected it.

"You have left out one or two most essential features," he remarked. "But," said the painter, "I thought you wouldn't care to have the—er—warts produced."

The millionaire turned purple with rage. "Confound it, sir," he bellowed, "I'm talking about the diamond rings and pin—not the warts."

RED CROSS TO TEACH ACCIDENT PREVENTION

First Aid Instruction to Promote Human Efficiency

THE new Red Cross idea is to diminish and prevent suffering as well as to relieve it. Accidents, like disease, are largely preventable.

The First Aid Bureau of the American Red Cross, Department of Military Relief, is striving to advance proficiency in first-aid and accident prevention among the American people.

Recently, several states, recognizing that the conservation of human life and human energy is all-important, have enacted laws providing for first aid in their industrial plants, in their mines and in their factories.

The Red Cross first-aid instruction imparts knowledge to the layman by means of lectures and demonstrations, based on the teachings of modern surgery and of common sense. The suggestions, as outlined in the Red Cross first-aid text-books, are not elaborate.

First-aid instruction, to be most effective, should reach boys and girls at a very receptive age, when growing responsibilities afford them opportunities to apply their knowledge and develop skill in accident prevention and first-aid.

In time of peace accidents have been costing us nearly 100,000 lives annually, and those injured in accidents, some of whom are crippled for life, have exceeded the dead by hundreds of thousands. Five times as many people as are killed are injured to so great an extent that they can no longer earn their living without re-education.

In our homes we are wasting human lives and physical fitness at an appalling rate. One of America's largest insurance companies reports that for a recent year 28 per cent of the total claims paid for accidental injuries (not including industrial) were for injuries received in and about the home, the percentage being considerably higher than for any other class of accidents.

General knowledge of how to prevent accidents can be made just as effective as general knowledge of how to prevent disease; and good treatment of the injured is just as important as good treatment of the sick.

RED CROSS STILL BUSY BRINGING FIGHTERS BACK

UNDER the Department of Military Relief the Red Cross with the beginning of war mapped out an elaborate program for the care of soldiers "all the way over and back again."

Now the "back again" part of the service is being carried out. The Cantons in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky alone took care of 246,200 doughboys last month, according to the last monthly report to the Lake Division headquarters in Cleveland, Ohio.

In Red Cross convalescent houses, recreations and amusements of all kinds keep the boys interested and make getting well easy. Red Cross Home Service men in camps, constantly in touch with the Home Service workers in the 357 Lake Division chapters and the branches and auxiliaries can get almost any information about the soldiers and sailors families. Anxiety over the safety, uncertainty as to the welfare of loved ones can be overcome by the Red Cross' ability to bridge the gap between the soldier and his distant home folks. At present 500 Red Cross Home Service representatives are working with 50,000 patients in the camps of the country.

Practical service to your boy has been and continues the end and aim of the Department of Military Relief of the Red Cross. One example of how effort is being made continually to accomplish this end, is shown by a recent arrangement made at Camp Sherman and Camp Taylor in the Lake Division.

Representatives of the American Bankers' Association and Red Cross men have established a banking system on a small scale which issues to the discharged soldier a non-negotiable receipt and secures the safe transfer of his fund free of charge to the home town bank he selects.

Within two hours of the opening of the bank at Camp Taylor $5,780 were deposited. On one day in June 283 men deposited $28,930.

By seeing needs and arranging to meet them, the Red Cross is continuing and will continue indefinitely its service to American fighting men, their families and to countries beyond our own shores where wrongs need

The Forsaken One

By REV. GEORGE GUILLE
Extension Department, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—Now from the sixth hour there was darkness over all the land unto the ninth hour. And about the ninth hour Jesus cried with a loud voice, saying, My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?—Matt. 27:45-46.

The Son of God is dying—a shameful, lingering death. The Father's well-beloved hanging on a cross! Hands that have stretched forth blessing everywhere are stretched now upon the transom of that cross, mangled and torn. Feet that have trodden no forbidden paths but carried him only upon errands of mercy, are pierced with cruel nails. That brow, on which the dove—in holy symbolism—has set her feet, is circled now with a crown of thorns, and blood-drops trickle down from a score of ghastly wounds. Appalled nature, gazing upon the awful tragedy, trembles, while over all the land a supernatural darkness gathers round. Out of that darkness there rises a cry from the lips of the Lowly Sufferer: "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?"

There is clearly a moral connection between that cry and the darkness, so that the one must explain the other. The line of a hymn we sometimes sing, "The darkness sought his woes to hide," as though the darkness were but nature's sympathy, does not explain it.

"God is Light." It is written, and this awful darkness is the result and the proof of his withdrawing himself from that scene.

The only man who ever dared say "why?" to God, and the only occasion in his career that he did so, receives no answer to his cry. And some who now hear that cry have heard him say, "He that hath sent me is with me; the Father hath not left me alone; for I do always those things that please him." But now when they who have hated him without a cause have foully murdered him, the heavens turn black above them, not in anger against them but, as his cry explains it—the sign that God has forsaken him in the hour of his deepest need.

Oh, for a voice to make known to men their personal interest in that unanswered cry! There is a psalm that, in one short line, tells it all—the 22nd: the psalm of which this cry is the opening line. David wrote it, but it is Christ who is seen and heard in every word of it. And in the third verse we hear his answer to this question, "Why?" Hear it, Oh, sinner! "But thou art holy." Yes, "Thou art of purer eyes than to behold evil, and canst not look upon iniquity." Sin upon the Sinless One? Yes, but it is your sin and mine laid on him, and God must turn away his face. Ah, Christ in the darkness is Christ "made sin" for you and me! Christ forsaken of God is Christ treated like a sinner in your place and mine!

Outside the limits of Israel's camp a fire was perpetually burning. Upon that fire the bodies of beasts used for the sin-offering were consumed, as the apostle says in Heb. 13, "For the bodies of those beasts, whose blood is brought into the sanctuary by the high priest for sin, are burned without the camp. Wherefore Jesus also, that he might sanctify the people with his own blood, suffered without the gate." Out to Calvary do they take him to die, as unfit to die within the sacred precincts of the Holy City. Christ on Calvary is Christ, the true Sin-offering. This is no martyr's or hero's death! It is the Son of God "made sin" for sinners, that they might be made "the righteousness of God in him," and out of that awful darkness comes our everlasting light; out of that forsaking, our assurance of his abiding presence; out of that cry of anguish, our hymn of gladdest praise. To its bitter dregs has he drained the cup of divine wrath against sin, that he might turn it into a cup of eternal bliss for everyone who will drink. O, soul, drink and live!

If there were no such word in Scripture as, "He that believeth not shall be damned," "he that believeth not shall not see life, but the wrath of God abideth on him," that supernatural darkness round the cross would be a sufficient warning to all men. Answer that question, if you can: If God turned away his face from his one beloved Son, the very darling of his heart, and infinitely holy because his sin was but imputed to him, what will he do with you whose sins are your own by nature and by practice when you stand before him, as you surely shall?

AVIATION RESPONSIBLE FOR ADDING 200 WORDS TO ENGLISH LANGUAGE

Dictionary Makers Are Kept Busy Listing New Terms That Entered Our Tongue Through the Development of Flying During the War—Meaning of Some of These New Words Explained in Simple Language.

Students of the English language attribute to aerial navigation the addition of 200 words. As the average American has had in the past a speaking vocabulary of only 650 of the more than 600,000 words in the English language, the increase brought about by the airplane and airship is regarded as remarkable.

For the benefit of those as yet unacquainted with the true meaning of such words as "fuselage," "nacelle," "drift," or "parasite resistance," the Manufacturers' Aircraft association has prepared a "flying dictionary" with the aid of a report compiled by the national advisory committee for aeronautics at Washington.

"Never before has so much aeronautical news been printed," says the Manufacturers' Aircraft association article "yet one of the handicaps is the proper description of equipment so as to give the public—generally uninitiated—an accurate idea of the magnitude of current happenings. This difficulty has also been encountered in government aircraft activities and appears more than ever now that commercial aviation, with proper encouragement, promises to develop soon."

Is Strange Language.

The 200 or more aeronautical words or phrases in common use on the flying fields or in the aircraft plants are strangers to the average reader. For instance, everyone probably has heard of the aileron, yet many may not know that the ailerons of a biplane are arranged in the trailing edges in a unique manner, causing it to respond at the slightest touch of the controls and enabling the pilot to ignore the lateral altitude of the machine entirely.

"An aileron, to be more specific, is a bit of a wing tip fixed on hinges back on the rear edge at the ends of the wings. It is controlled by wires. When moved from the pilot's seat the ailerons on one side raise and those on the other side decline proportionately, thereby allowing the wind pressure against them to tip the plane to either side as desired."

"A biplane is a two-winged machine one wing placed above the other. A majority of the American and British machines are biplanes. The 'trailing edge' is the rear edge of the wings. Speaking of gliding, it means not only gliding but the angle of the path the airplane takes when it descends under the influence of gravity alone. A plane usually glides by keeping its nose fixed toward the horizon, when it will glide straightaway eight miles for every mile it is above the earth, or eight in one."

What Is an Airplane?

"An airplane is a machine that depends for support in the air on planes or wings and the propelling power of its motors to keep it there, overcoming gravity and at the same time propelling it forward. An airship is not an airplane but a balloon, elongated, somewhat cigar-shaped and provided with a propelling system, car for passengers, rudders and stabilizing surfaces."

"There are three kinds of airships, the non-rigid, whose form or shape is maintained by pressure of gas inside, aided by pressure of the cables and ropes which hold the passenger car underneath. Then there is the rigid airship, or one having a stiff wood or metal framework inside the big gas bag to hold its shape for it. The semi-rigid airship has a rigid metal or wooden keel or spine along its under side, which holds it partly in shape. Balloons and airships have appendices, too. The appendix is a hose leading from the bottom side of the gas bag to the car and used for inflating it, or, in the case of the old-fashioned spherical balloon, like a big rubber ball, it serves to equalize the gas pressure inside."

"An aviator is an operator or pilot of an airplane, or any heavier-than-air craft. A balloon is a lighter-than-air craft. The term 'aviator' applies to either a man or a woman who drives airplanes. The term 'fuselage' is common, yet not wholly understood. It is the body of the airplane, or the fabric-covered framework which holds the engine in front, the pilot's seat and passenger area in the center between the wings and then runs back to the tail."

"Dope" Used on Aircraft.

"The 'trail group' is general, and it contains, besides the rudder or rudders, depending on the type of machine, elevators in a horizontal position, one on either side of the rudder, and fins which are vertical to the elevators and are fixed, forming one plane with the rudder when it is in a natural position. The controls are the wheel or 'stick' for use of the pilot in guiding his craft, the same as the wheel of an automobile or the rudder bar of a boat. A control has three uses, where in other vehicles, such as the motorcar or boat, only two uses can be found for it. The reason is that 'aviators' have to contend with three dimensions. An auto or boat can travel only backward or forward, or sideward. A plane can do these things and besides can go either up or down. A hangar is a shed for an airplane. An airplane also has 'dope' in large quantities. Dope is a substance resembling glue, etc., used in treating the cloth surfaces of airplanes and balloons to increase strength, produce tautness and act as a filler to maintain the air and prevent the fabric from leaking or tearing. Its base usually is cellulose. The nacelle of an airplane or dirigible is a structure to which the wings are attached. The engine is mounted in it. A nacelle never extends back to the tail, but sometimes protrudes out in front and holds the propeller.

"The term 'pancake' came into use during the war. It means that an airplane, when landing, straightens out almost level with the ground, instead of diving into it. In other cases the tail is dropped lower than the nose, so that the wings catch the air and retard the force of the descent. A pontoon is a float or buoyant construction attached either under the wings of a hydroplane or flying boat or under its body to keep it afloat. When we speak in terms of speed, we mean air speed, or the relative speed of an airplane in the air, and deducting the actual speed of the air from the distance we have traveled. Ground speed is more common. If we travel from one point to another in ten minutes, making fifteen miles from A to B, we say that the ground speed was a mile and a half a minute, or 90 miles an hour. The undercarriage of a plane is the structure by which it is enabled to land; the braces and wheels, between which a skid bar is sometimes located."

ADOPTS SIX ORPHANS

Rhode Island Man Regrets He Hasn't Room for More.

The appeal of Col. H. Anthony Dyer, "Who will adopt an orphan?" has been answered by Leo F. Myers, well known in sporting circles at Providence, R. I., who has adopted six orphans. They are being tenderly cared for by Mrs. Myers, who told Colonel Dyer she wished her house was large enough to accommodate more. Colonel Dyer's appeal was answered by a number of wealthy East side residents, who are said to have made arrangements to care for one or more orphans in one of the many institutions.

"I wish there were more men and women like Leo Myers and his wife, and we would be assured of good homes for a number of unfortunate children who badly need homes," said Colonel Dyer.

The adoption of six children by Myers will result in other prosperous men taking children to their homes, in the opinion of social workers.

"It keeps me busy buying for the children, but I enjoy it," is Myers' comment.

Leo F. Myers was a political leader of prominence in Philadelphia before moving to Providence several years ago.

G. H. Anderson Bulletin.

I have a car of Aviston Special Flour on hand out of old wheat. This has been tried, having sold one car load, and has proven to be satisfactory. It is guaranteed to be as good a patent flour as there is on the market, no exceptions whatever. I have a full stock of feeds—hominy feed, cracked corn, middlings, bran, horse feed, dairy feed, and all kinds of feed for all purposes. I am in the market for all the wheat, I can get, and will assure a square deal in regard to grades and price. Also rye, oats and corn at the top price. I will be open evenings to receive wheat.

BAD DEBT BRINGS WEALTH

Texas Farm, Thrust on Kansas Banker, Now Rich in Oil.

Thirty-five years ago J. Z. Miller, Jr., now governor of the Kansas City Federal Reserve bank, was forced, because of a bad debt of $684, to take possession of an uncultivated farm of 160 acres five miles west of Granger, Tex. During the intervening years Mr. Miller never was able to find anyone who would cultivate the land nor anyone who would buy it. Whenever the taxes fell due, he was reminded that he owned the land. There never was a time that $20 an acre would not have bought the farm, with the owner's best wishes thrown in.

The farm, so long a thorn in the side of its owner, now has become a source of great wealth. An oil lease speculation recently gave Mr. Miller a bonus of twice the former value of the land for the oil rights, Mr. Miller retaining one-eighth royalty. Wells were drilled and recently one began yielding 2,000 barrels a day.

Experts now estimate that the 160-acre farm, which never earned anything, will have a production of 25,000 barrels of oil a day when completely drilled.

TUBERCULOSIS' BIG TOLL

Disease Killed Over 25,000 French Soldiers During War.

Twenty-five thousand French soldiers died from tuberculosis during the war and 120,000 men were exempted from service because of the disease, it was stated in the United States senate during a discussion on a bill to establish tuberculosis sanitariums in this country.

no one would have to advance any money to get the car, it is pointed out.

Those who favor the plan contend that the stocks can be sold considerably cheaper than at retail as all profits are eliminated. The government will not permit the commodities to be sold at any profit and only the original cost, freight and a small charge for handling can be considered in figuring the selling price. The freight, it is thought, would not be large as the car would likely come from Camp Zachary Taylor, Louisville. Those who have charge of distribution would be asked to serve without compensation.

There will be no attempt to get the shipment, it is stated, unless the public shows a desire to buy the goods. Such articles as bacon, corn, peas, etc., are available but must be purchased in probably case lots. This is necessary, it is stated, to reduce the cost of handling. If the cases are broken the cost of each can would have to be figured up and the charge would have to cover additional work. The matter, it is expected, will be brought up at the next meeting of the chamber of commerce and if the members decide to petition for a shipment a committee will be appointed to negotiate with the government.

The Magnificent Ambersons

By BOOTH TARKINGTON

COPYRIGHT BY DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & COMPANY

George's anticipations were not disappointed. When he came home in June his friend was awaiting him; at least she was so pleased to see him again that for a few minutes after their first encounter she was a little breathless and a great deal glowing, and quiet withal.

Lucy and her father were living at the Amberson hotel, while Morgan got his small machine shops built in a western outskirts of the town; and George grumbled about the shabbiness and the old-fashioned look of the hotel, though it was "still the best in the place, of course." He remonstrated with his grandfather, declaring that the whole Amberson Estate would be getting "run down and out at heel if things weren't taken in hand pretty soon." He urged the general need of rebuilding, renovating, varnishing and lawsuits. But the Major, declining to hear him out, interrupted querulously, saying that he had enough to bother him without any advice from George; and retired to his library, going so far as to lock the door audibly.

"Second childhood!" George muttered, shaking his head; and he thought sadly that the Major had not long to live. However, this surmise depressed him for only a moment or so. Of course people couldn't be expected to live forever, and it would be a good thing to have someone in charge of the Estate who wouldn't let it get to looking so rusty that raff raff dared to make fun of it. For George had lately undergone the annoyance of calling upon the Morgans, in the rather stuffy red velours and gilt parlor of their apartment at the hotel, one evening when Mr. Frederick Kinney also, was a caller, and Mr. Kinney had not been tactful. In fact, though he adopted a humorous tone of voice in expressing sympathy for people who, through the city's poverty in hotels, were obliged to stay at the Amberson, Mr. Kinney's intention was interpreted by the other visitor as not at all humorous, but, on the contrary, personal and offensive.

George rose abruptly, his face the color of wrath. "Good night, Miss Morgan. Good night, Mr. Morgan. I shall take pleasure in calling at some other time when a more courteous sort of people may be present."

"Look here!" the hot-headed Fred burst out. "Don't you try to make me out a boor, George Mainer! I wasn't hinting anything at you; I simply forgot all about your grandfather owing this old building. Don't you try to put me in the light of a boor! I won't!"

But George walked out in the very course of his vehement protest, and it was necessarily left unfinished.

Mr. Kinney remained only a few moments after George's departure; and as the door closed upon him the distressed Lucy turned to her father. She was plausibly surprised to find him in a condition of immoderate laughter.

"It brings things back so!" he managed to explain. "This very Fred Kinney's father and young George's father, Wilbur Mainer, used to do just such things when they were at that age—and, for that matter, so did George Amberson and I, and all the rest of us!" And in spite of his exhaustion, he began to imitate: "Don't you try to put me in the light of a boor! I shall take pleasure in calling at some time when a more courteous sort of people—" He was unable to go on.

"Papa, I think they were shocking. Weren't they awful!"

"Just—just boys!" he moaned, wiping his eyes.

But Lucy could not smile at all; she was beginning to look indignant. "I can forgive that poor Fred Kinney," she said. "He's just blundering—but George—oh, George behaved outrageously!"

She came and sat upon the arm of his chair. "Papa, why should George behave like that?"

"He's sensitive."

"Rather! But why is he? He does anything he likes to, without any regard for what people think. Then why should he mind so furiously when the least little thing reflects upon him, or on anything or anybody connected with him?"

Eugene patted her hand. "That's one of the greatest puzzles of human vanity, dear; and I don't pretend to know the answer. In all my life the most arrogant people that I've known have been the most sensitive. The people who have done the most in contempt of other people's opinion, and who consider themselves the highest above it have been the most furious if it went against them. Arrogant and domineering people can't stand the least, lightest, faintest breath of criticism. It just kills them."

"Papa, do you think George is terribly arrogant and domineering?"

"Oh, he's still only a boy," said Eugene consolingly. "There's plenty of fine stuff in him—can't help but be, because he's Isabel Amberson's son." Lucy stroked his hair, which was still almost as dark as her own. "You liked her pretty well once, I guess, papa."

"I do still," he said quietly.

"She's lovely—lovely! Papa—" she paused, then continued—"I wonder sometimes—"

"What?"

"I wonder just how she happened to marry Mr. Mainer."

"Oh, Mainer's all right," said Eugene. "He's a quiet sort of man, but he's a good man and a kind man. He always was, and those things count."

"I don't think I should have called George bad tempered," Lucy said thoughtfully. "No. I don't think he is."

"Only when he's cross about something?" Morgan suggested, with a semblance of sympathetic gravity.

"Yes," she said brightly, not perceiving that his intention was humorous. "All the rest of the time he's really very amiable. Of course he's much more a perfect child the whole time than he realizes! He certainly behaved awfully tonight." She jumped up, her indignation returning. "He did, indeed, and it won't do to encourage him in it. I think he'll find me pretty cool—for a week or so!"

Whereupon her father suffered a renewal of his attack of uproarious laughter.

In the matter of coolness George met Lucy upon her own predetermined ground; in fact, he was there first, and at their next encounter proved loftier and more formal than she did. Their estrangement lasted three weeks, and then disappeared without any preliminary treaty: it had worn itself out and they forgot it.

The Major had taken a great fancy to her, insisting upon her presence and her father's at the Amberson family dinner at the Mansion every Sunday evening. She knew how to flirt with old people, he said, as she sat next him at the table on one of these Sunday occasions; and he had always liked her father, even when Eugene was a "terror" long ago. "Oh, yes, he was!" the Major laughed when she remonstrated. "He came up here with my son George and some others for a serenade one night, and Eugene stepped into a bass fiddle, and the poor musicians just gave up! That serenade was just before Isabel was married—and don't you fret, Miss Lucy: your father remembers it well enough!" The old gentleman burst into laughter, and shook his finger at Eugene across the table. "The fact is," the Major went on hilariously, "I believe if Eugene hadn't broken that bass fiddle and given himself away Isabel would never have taken Wilbur! I shouldn't be surprised if that was about all the reason that Wilbur got her! What do you think, Wilbur?"

"I shouldn't be surprised," said Wilbur placidly. "If your notion is right I'm glad 'Gene broke the fiddle. He was giving me a hard run!"

The Major always drank three glasses of champagne at his Sunday dinner, and he was finishing the third. "What do you say about it, Isabel? By Jove!" he cried, pounding the table, "she's blushing!"

Eugene was as pink as Isabel, but he laughed without any sign of embarassment other than his heightened color. "There's another important thing—that is, for me," he said. "It's the only thing that makes me forgive that bass viol for getting in my way."

"What is it?" the Major asked.

"Lucy," said Morgan gently.

Isabel gave him a quick glance, all warm approval, and there was a murmur of friendliness round the table. Summer glided by evenly and quickly enough, for the most part, and at the end seemed to fly. On the last night before George went back to be a junior his mother asked him confidently if it had not been a happy summer.

He hadn't thought about it, he answered. "Oh, I suppose so. Why?"

"I just thought it would be nice to hear you say so," she said, smiling. "It's seemed to me that it must have been a happy summer for you—a real 'summer of roses and wine'—without the wine, perhaps. 'Gather ye roses while ye may'—or was it primroses? Time does really fly, or perhaps it's like the sky—and smoke—"

George was puzzled. "It strikes me you're getting mixed. I don't see much resemblance between time and the sky, or between things and smoke wreaths; but I do see one reason you like Lucy Morgan so much. She talks that same kind of wistful, moony way sometimes—I don't mean to say I mind it in either of you, because I rather like to listen to it, and you've got a very good voice, mother. It's nice to listen to, no matter how much smoke and sky, and so on, you talk. So's Lucy's, for that matter; and I see why you're congenial. She talks that way to her father, too; and he's right there with the same kind of guff. Well, it's all right with me! I've got plenty to think about when people drool along!"

She pressed his hand to her cheek, and a tear made a tiny warm streak across one of his knuckles.

"For heaven's sake!" he said. "What's the matter? Isn't everything all right?"

"You're going away! I never can bear to see you go—that's the most of it. I'm a little bothered about your father, too."

"Why?"

"It seems to me he looks so bad. Everybody thinks so."

"What nonsense!" George laughed. "He's been looking that way all summer. He isn't much different from the way he's looked all his life, that I can see. What's the matter with him?"

"He never talks much about his business to me, but I think he's been worrying about some investments he made last year. I think his worry has affected his health."

"What investments?" George demanded. "He hasn't gone into Mr. Morgan's automobile concern, has he?"

"No," Isabel smiled. "The 'automobile concern' is all Eugene's, and it's so small I understand it's taken hardly anything. No; your father has always prided himself on making only the most absolutely safe investments, but two or three years ago he and your Uncle George both put a great deal—pretty much everything they could get together, I think—into the stock of rolling mills some friends of theirs owned, and I'm afraid the mills haven't been doing well."

"For Heaven's Sake!" He Said, "What's the Matter?"

"What of that? Father needn't worry. You and I can take care of him the rest of his life on what grandfather—"

"Of course," she agreed. "But your father's always lived so for his business and taken such pride in his sound investments; it's a passion with him. I—"

"Pshaw! He needn't worry! You tell him we'll look after him!" He kissed her. "Good night; I'm going to tell Lucy goodby. Don't sit up for me."

"Yes, I will," she laughed. "You won't be very late."

"Well—it's my last night."

"But I know Lucy, and she knows I want to see you too, your last night. You'll see; she'll send you home promptly at eleven!"

But she was mistaken; Lucy sent him home promptly at ten.

Big Lot of Hay Fever Jokes

But Kentucky Man Says—"People Who Belong to Hay Fever Colony are Kidding Themselves."

Wouldn't Be Any Rose or Hay Fever if Simple Home Remedy Was Given a Chance.

"Yes, there's a real NINETY-NINE per cent effective remedy for hay or rose fever," frankly states a druggist in a prosperous Kentucky city.

"But I don't expect anyone to believe me, because the treatment is so easy and the cost not worth mentioning."

"The annual crop of hay-fever jokes would be mighty scarce if people would get an ounce of Mentholized Arcine and by just adding water that has been boiled make a pint of liquid that will prove a real help to all who suffer."

"Many of my hay-fever friends tell me that by starting to gargle and sniff or spray the nostrils a few times a day the expected severe attack often falls to appear and in cases where it does show up is very mild and does not annoy."

"The Better Class of Pharmacists" who dispense Mentholized Arcine say it will greatly modify any attack even when taken three or four days after hostilities begin.

Go to a real live druggist when you get ready to make a pint.

7 A DAY FOR 7 DAYS

If Your Nerves Are Shaky Because of Over-Indulgence in Tobacco or Alcohol or by Excess of Any Kind, Bio-Feren is What You Need Right Away.

Don't grow old before your time, don't let nervousness wreck your happiness or chances in life. The man with strong, steady nerves is full of vigor, energy, ambition and confidence.

You can have nerves of steel, firm step, new courage and keep mind by putting your blood and nerves in first-class shape with mighty Bio-Feren, a new discovery, inexpensive and efficient.

Men and women who get up so tired in the morning that they have to drag themselves to their daily labor will in just a few days arise with clear mind, definite purpose and loads of ambition.

All you have to do is to take two Bio-Feren tablets after each meal and one at bedtime—7 a day for 7 days—then reduce to one after each meal until all are gone.

Then if your energy and endurance haven't doubled, if your mind isn't keener and eyes brighter, if you don't feel twice as ambitious as before, any druggist anywhere will return the purchase price—gladly and freely.

Bio-Feren is without doubt the grandest remedy for nervous, run-down, weak, anaemic men and women ever offered and is not at all expensive. All druggists in this city and vicinity have a supply on hand—sell many packages.

The World's Greatest Electric Washer The EDEN

Do you wash your clothes in the old fashioned way or do you use the modern up-to-date method?

If every husband could be made to do the family washing just once his wife would have an Eden the following Monday.

Preserve Your Health---Use
The EDEN Electric Washer and Wringing Machine.

This modern and up-to-date machine will wash 35 pieces of linen every 20 minutes and 105 pieces in 60 minutes. It eliminates the boiling of your clothes and the disagreeable odors that are always present in your home on wash day. The power wringer does away with the old hand method and the entire machine has so many wonderful features that only a demonstration in your own home can convince you that you need one.

It pays for itself with what it saves you. Factory experts will be with us all next week to demonstrate. Phone for free demonstration.
